A Note on Exchanges

When we receive covers often there is an offer from another member for exchange of stamps or other collectibles. Because many CCCC members also enjoy other things than covers I regularly receive offers of stamps, banknotes, phone cards and other collectibles. I've been told that there are well over 20,000 different collector specialties. So it is not surprising that many different items are offered.

Each of us makes our own decisions about how to respond to exchange offers. It is appeals to you, do it. If not, ignore it. None of us can participate in all the possibilities.

Exchanges should always only be by prior mutual agreement. Sometimes we receive a packet of stamps which asks for a reciprocal packet. My view is that you have no obligation where there was no prior agreement. You might keep the stamps or give them to another collector who would enjoy the exchange.

If you are seeking exchanges it may be difficult to find a trade partner. I doubt that sending a request when you forward a circuit is the best way of seeking exchanges. It would probably be quicker and cheaper to put an advert here in our monthly newsletter. Rik Dessers, our newsletter editor, will be glad to help you.
