November 2014

Why?

Why do we collect covers and stamps? Each of us has our own story to tell. What we know is that somehow collecting makes us feel better.

In mid-October I had a speaking engagement in Beijing, China. Because my schedule was very crowded I had little time for sightseeing and no opportunity to contact CCCC members in Beijing. Despite all that I always enjoy visiting other countries.

Long airplane flights across twelve time zones set me to thinking about how collecting stamps was my start in learning about countries other than my own. I was about seven years old when I begin to see stamps as a window to the world. Now, sixty five years later, stamps still intrigue me. One of the wonderful aspects of our philatelic hobby is that for the cost of a postage stamp we can experience the whole world. We can see the art, the culture, and the history of lands we may never visit.

I think that opportunity is where we can grow CCCC and all of philately. We need to tell all, especially young persons, that through stamps they can explore the world. Spread the word: stamps are fun!
