Covers and Email

Even if we love covers and stamps many of us now get a lot of email. The USA post office reports that first class letter mail has significantly declined because of the use of email. Increasingly most of their business is advertising and they resent us who refer to it as "junk mail."

If it was not for the covers I receive from CCCC members I might never receive a stamp on my mail. Most mail now seems to have either a meter imprint or printed indicia. Not much fun for us collectors.

So treasure your stamped covers. My local postmasters say that collectors are the best boosters for their business.

At the same time, computers play an increasingly important role in our hobby. For example now over 80% of our new CCCC members join online. Club records depend on spreadsheet programs. My inbox fills with club correspondence and Facebook plays a major role for our community. I guess we must believe that stamps and computers will now always coexist.
