News From Headquarters Renate Thompson

Recently I learned that Dmytro Bykovetz, one of our long-time OMs, has cancer and fluid in his lungs. Dmytro has been undergoing chemo therapy over the past two months. Most of the time he feels fine and continues to send out circuits although on a more limited scale. We wish him all the best and that he is able to overcome this dreadful disease and will be active in the CCCC for a long time yet.

Our sincerest condolences for his loss and we hope that the mail he receives will bring a bit of pleasure into his life.

I myself had knee replacement surgery at the beginning of this month and although I am making rapid progress with my recovery, my time at the typewriter and computer is still very limited. If you are expecting an answer to a letter or some special cancels they may be slow in coming. I have just not been able to put in the many hours of work I usually do daily for the CCCC.

George Roodzant, one of our Canadian OMs lost his wife at the end of the Summer and is now starting again to issue cir-
